William Hill Sports Book of the Year rules:

1. Any full-length book, the subject of which is predominantly sporting, is eligible. In the event of the winning title having more than one author, the judges reserve the right to either split the prize or award additional prizes as agreed by the panel of judges.
2. All books nominated must be published in the UK for the first time during the period 13th October 2019 and 12th October 2020 (Publication in another country prior to a UK publishing date will not disqualify a book).
3. For the award, a sporting book is one which the judges agree meets the criteria for consideration for the award. Their decision in this and all other matters pertaining to the award will be binding.
4. Publishers may enter any number of books, provided they are all scheduled for publication (or have already been published) as per rule 2. Entry form (plus ten copies of each title entered) must be received by the 'Organising Committee' before close of business on Friday, 28th August 2020.
5. Provided entries are scheduled for publication before 12th October 2020, the judges will accept proof copies of the book up to 28th August 2020. In exceptional circumstances, provided they are submitted in time for them to be accorded the necessary consideration the judges reserve the right to accept additional entries. The judges' decision on this matter will be final and no correspondence will be entered into.
6. Following the closing date for a nomination, the 'Organisation Committee' will circulate a full list of nominations to the judges. The judges will have the right to call in other titles at any time thereafter with due consideration to Rule 5.

7. The 'Organisation Committee' shall nominate several titles to be considered in depth by the judges and will ask the respective publishers to supply a further ten copies of those books. The 'Organising Committee' also reserves the right to call for a further 10 copies of any and each book so-called for by any one of the judges under Rule 6.
8. From the judges' deliberations, a long list of titles from those considered will be announced in September 2020.
9. The 'Organising Committee' will contact the publisher in the event of an entry being longlisted.
10. From the judges' deliberations, a shortlist of titles from those considered will be announced in October 2020.
11. The award winners will be announced on 3rd December 2020. The publishers of the shortlisted titles will be called upon by the 'Organising Committee' to supply 20 copies of the shortlisted titles for use at the reception which will be held to mark the award ceremony.
12. By nominating a title or titles for the award, the publisher of the winning Sports Book of the Year 2020 title agrees to meet half the cost of placing a good-sized advertisement in a mutually agreeable press publication announcing the winner of the award for 2020.
13. The publisher of the winning title agrees to use the words "William Hill (as a logo) Sports Book of the Year 2020" as a front cover flash for any subsequent reprints of the winning title, hardback or paperback.
14. The prize will be £30,000 for the author and a trophy.
15. All shortlisted authors will receive a leather-bound copy of their book and £3,000 cash.
16. Each shortlisted author must be available to attend the Prize Ceremony held on 3rd December 2020.
17. Longlisted and shortlisted authors should be prepared to undertake media interviews, appear on a William Hill podcast and wherever possible, make reference to the Prize on their own websites/blogs.
18. Any publisher submitting an entry form for the Award is automatically bound by these rules.
